Roumania Mourns Passing Of Marie, Its Dowager Queen

Death Comes in 63rd Year to Woman Who Greatly Influenced Nation

King Carol With Mother at End

BUCHAREST (AP)—Dowager Queen Marie of Roumania, who helped shape the destiny of her country for a generation, died today in her 63rd year.

The queen-mother, famed for her beauty, died at her palace at Sinaia, the royal summer residence, at 6.25 p.m. (8.25 a.m. P.S.T.).

Prime Minister Miron Cristea, who also is Patriarch of the Roumanian Orthodox Church, celebrated mass in the palace immediately after her passing. Previously he had administered extreme unction as death neared.

In Bucharest all public buildings immediately displayed flags at half staff.

KING AT BEDSIDE

King Carol, her son, and Crown Prince Mihai and Princess Elizabeth of Greece were at the queen's bedside. Her last illness found her in the same bed in which her husband, King Ferdinand, died in 1927.

The queen had been dangerously ill for most of the past year. However, only Saturday she had returned to Roumania from Dresden after a month in a sanatorium and had been welcomed home ceremoniously.

There was a relapse yesterday. Physicians disclosed there had been a hemorrhage on the return from Germany. When another occurred today they announced she was "in very dangerous condition."

All visitors were barred from the palace.

ILL SINCE MARCH, 1937.

The queen-mother was taken ill in March, 1937. She recovered during the summer months, only to fall seriously ill last October. In March of this year she had again recovered sufficiently to speak at a Bucharest demonstration for Anglo-Roumanian friendship, but shortly afterward entered the Dresden Sanatorium, where her illness was diagnosed as cirrhosis of the liver. Death resulted from complications arising from the liver complaint.

TWO DROWNED IN CAR

ST. DAMIEN, Que. (CP)—Simon Gosselin, 19-year-old farm girl, and her sister Anita, 16, were drowned near this Bellechasse County village last night when their father's automobile, carrying 10 persons, hurtled into Lac Vert after colliding with another vehicle. Honorius Gosselin, a St. Henri de Levis farmer, his wife and other occupants of the car escaped before the automobile submerged.

ABBOTSFORD, B.C. (CP)—Several shots were fired by British Columbia police here early today in an unsuccessful attempt to halt a couple of men who burglarized a dry goods store.

VICTORIAN IS FATALLY HURT

Leander Backlund, 925 Johnson Street, Dies After Alberni Accident

Leander Backlund, 925 Johnson Street, died from injuries received in a motorcycle accident in Port Alberni Saturday night, according to a report from divisional headquarters of the B.C. Police here.

Lee Forsberg, 923 Johnson Street, who was a passenger on the motorcycle, was also reported injured but under care in the West Coast Hospital.

No details of the accident were received by police here except word that the motorcycle on which Backlund and Forsberg were riding was in collision with a car. Backlund lived for several hours after the crash but did not regain consciousness.

Provincial Police notified a brother, Andrew Backlund, of Cloose, of his brother's death.

Seattle Still Has Sit-downers

SEATTLE (AP)—Relief sit-down demonstrators still are laying siege to the King County relief office after eight days of occupation. Conferences Saturday between Workers' Alliance officials and Kenneth Wadleigh, county welfare director, failed to reach an accord. Some 50 demonstrators continued to occupy the County-City Building hallway outside the office.

MARINERS AT HANKOW

HONGKONG (CP—Havas)—One hundred British mariners left aboard a special train for Hankow Monday to reinforce the crews of British warships in the Yangtze River. The men were brought here Sunday aboard the cruiser Suffolk from Weihaiwei, British summer naval headquarters in Suntung. The cruiser is returning to Weihaiwei.

Entrance Results Ready Tomorrow

Results of entrance examinations in British Columbia will be issued tomorrow afternoon. It was announced this morning by the Department of Education.

Matriculation results will be ready by the end of the week, it is expected. Since the children of B.C. schools wrote their entrance examinations late in June, a large staff of teachers has been at work in the Parliament Buildings correcting the papers.

S. D. Ostlund Held By Police Investigating Mrs. L. Green Case

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Seth Daniel Ostlund, a giant, 32-year-old logger, was arrested by British Columbia police here today and charged with the murder of Mrs. Laura Green, whose battered body was found in a railway cut near Taghum, five miles from here, Friday.

Staff Sergeant C. G. Barber, who investigated the death of Mrs. Green, said today he had been watching the towering lumberman, who stands six feet two inches in height, for some time in connection with the case. A few hours after he had begun investigating the death, Sergeant Barber announced he believed the woman had been murdered in a struggle that took place near the spot where her body was found.

Subsequently Coroner H. H. Mackenzie, after performing an autopsy Saturday, said there were "many marks of violence" on Mrs. Green's body in addition to the head wounds. These marks included a deep gash on the throat.

When Broadway Greeted Hughes Fliers

The stony canyons of New York echoed the cheers of the crowded streets as tons of torn paper and ticker-tape fluttered from the office windows high overhead in the city's official welcome to Howard Hughes and his four companions of the record round-the-world flight. Riding in triumph toward the City Hall, the scene pictured above met their gaze as they passed famous old Trinity Church, where Wall Street joins Broadway. The reception was the greatest since that accorded Charles A. Lindbergh 11 years ago.

Families Leave Campbell River As Fire Widens

Change of Wind May Send Island Forest Blaze in Courtenay Direction

Forest fires spread through British Columbia timberlands today as more than 1,000 men set fire lines and manned hose in efforts to check widespread blazes estimated to have caused thousands of dollars worth of damage in the last week.

On Vancouver Island a force of 800, including unemployed loggers and volunteers fought a blaze at Campbell River, the worst fire in the province. Starting at Menzies Bay last week, it swept southward 12 miles to Campbell River through the holdings of four logging companies.

Forbes Landing, summer resort near Campbell River, 85 miles north of Nanaimo, was evacuated. Forestry officials also ordered the evacuation of 30 families from the Campbell River Timber Camp as precautionary measures.

Forestry officials feared that a change of wind, which they said might send the blaze racing into slushy southward toward Courtenay. With no change in wind, however, the blaze might be controlled soon.

KOOTENAY FIRE
On the mainland, 100 men fought a fire in the Kootenay district between Champion Creek and German Creek on the east side of the Columbia River. They had completed a fire trench to windward of the blaze and hoped to control the fire today.

A serious blaze on the Salmon Arm of Sechart Inlet, 40 miles north of Vancouver on the coast, was being brought under control. It destroyed 2,500,000 feet of cut logs and is now burning in scrub timber on high, rough ground.

A lightning strike at Bush River, north of Golden on the Big Bend highway in the interior, was being investigated by forestry officials in the area.

A fire at the headquarters of the St. Mary's River on the divide between British Columbia and Alberta, was being fought by a detachment of the B.C. Forest Guard. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 7)

Franco to Win, Says Mussolini

ROME (AP)—Premier Mussolini today predicted victory for insurgent Spain before the civil war is another year old in a telegram he sent to the insurgent leader, General Franco, on the war's second anniversary.

Fortin Scheme Cost $41,921

Statement of All Expenses Prepared For City Council's Consideration

The Fortin refunding scheme has cost the city $31,641.71 and there is $10,279.75 still to be paid, according to a statement filed with the City Clerk this morning by Dr. A. MacDonald, city comptroller.

The statement was prepared on instructions of the council and will be presented to this afternoon's meeting of the Mayor and aldermen.

The larger portion of the money is already paid and that to be paid is for traveling expenses and legal and various other fees, the statement showed.

Total cost of the trip which ex-mayor David Leeming, Mr. MacDonald and Charles S. Henley, fiscal agent, took to England was $8,142.31. Mr. Henley's share of this was $4,942.93, listed as traveling and other expenses. The cost for both the then mayor and Mr. MacDonald was $3,199.38. In addition Mr. Henley also received his $17,000 fee.

The principal items of the statement follow: Mr. Leeming and Mr. MacDonald's expenses to England, $3,199.38; traveling and other expenses, C. S. Henley, $4,942.93; Mayor McGavin and Mr. Henley, expenses to Toronto, $947.55; C. S. Henley, fee, $17,000; bonuses, comptroller and city solicitor, $2,400; legal fees, Elliott, MacLean and Shandley, $1,500.

The above amounts were all paid out of the sinking fund reserve. In addition there was $475 paid out of current revenue, to be paid back, for additional legal fees for Elliott, MacLean and Shandley, and P. J. Sinnott, solicitor.

The remaining $10,279 is yet to be paid and is made up of the following amounts: A. D. MacFarlane, legal fees, $3,540.35; D. M. Gordon, $500; Lawson and Davis, $795; P. J. Sinnott, $176; printing debentures, $4,633.

JAPANESE TELL OF BOLD RAID
Fliers Land at Nanchang and Set Chinese Planes Afire

SHANGHAI (AP)—Japanese naval fliers Monday carried out what a Japanese naval communiqué described as "the most daring attack in the history of military aviation."

During a large-scale attack on the big Chinese airdrome at Nanchang, southwest of Lake Poyang, a squadron of Japanese bombing planes landed at the airport despite rifle and machine-gun fire from the Chinese defenders, the communiqué stated.

Then the bombers' crews jumped out of their planes, seized two machine-gun magazines, seized two machine-gun magazines as war booty, chased Chinese fleeing in a gasoline truck into a neighboring rice field, and returned to their base unscathed.

GUN DUELS
Long-range artillery duels between Japanese warships and Chinese land batteries continued along the Yangtze River Monday, but war maps showed the Japanese had made little progress during the past two weeks in the Yangtze sector.

Main concentration of Japanese warships still was at the Matowchen boom, 175 miles downstream from Hankow, while land forces were held below Kiukiang, 135 miles below the provisional capital.

An attempt to advance overland from the north bank of the river in conjunction with the naval advance was meeting similar resistance.

Chinese reports said the invaders had suffered 10,000 casualties during the past two weeks below Kiukiang. They said several boatloads of bodies were

NO EARLY ALBERTA ELECTION PLANNED
PRESTON, Ont. (CP)—J. H. Mr. Unwin is visiting friends in this district and will speak at several Ontario points.

Chaco Treaty To Be Signed

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Approval at the week-end by both Bolivia and Paraguay of a peace accord to settle their century-old fight over the Gran Chaco apparently will be followed by formal signing of the treaty early this week.

Although Paraguay's acceptance of the arbitration plan was understood to depend on some minor details, neutral sources expressed belief there were no serious obstacles.

Thus, the second major step will have been taken toward settling the dispute which has raged over the Chaco's "Green Hell" for 100 years and caused three years of bloody war in its swamps and jungles. The first was the armistice which ended the bloodshed June 14, 1935.

Next must come ratification by a plebiscite in Paraguay and the constituent assembly in Bolivia.

BAGGAGE SENT

LONDON (AP)—One hundred heavy trunks were trundled out of Buckingham Palace this morning, the equipage of the King and Queen on their state visit to France. The trunks were sent to Dover, where Their Majesties are to start their journey tomorrow aboard the Admiralty yacht Enchantress.

A flotilla of nine destroyers arrived at Dover today from Portsmouth to escort the Enchantress. Eighteen naval planes also will be on hand when the yacht sails.

The King, recovered from the attack of gastric influenza which sent him to bed a week ago, rested in the palace for the trip. The Queen supervised the final details of packing. They had motored to London from Windsor House last night.

There was a big week-end rush of Britons to Paris, anxious to see the King in the gigantic parades and fanfare France is staging to show the world the two great European democracies still are firm friends.

By GEORGE HAMBLETON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON — The strange case of Duncan Sandys, Territorial Army officer and Conservative member of the House of Commons, who claimed he was threatened under the Official Secrets Act for possessing secret military information, today again entered the arena of lively Parliament debate.

Rt. Hon. Clement Attlee, leader of the opposition, gave notice in the House that he intends to move a reference back to the report of the committee on privileges which, he said, had been misled and in turn misled the House "into passing censure on innocent persons."

The privileges committee found that the summons to Mr. Sandys to appear before a military court of inquiry, when the question of his liability under the Official Secrets Act was still before the House constituted a breach of traditional parliamentary privilege.

CHAMBER CROWDED

The House was packed to the doors when Speaker E. A. Fitzroy rose to give his ruling of the "new information," presented last Thursday by Lieut.-Col. Arthur P. Heneage, Conservative.

This information showed, the Speaker said, that members of the military court knew nothing of the summoning of Sandys to appear before them. They had no say whatever in summoning witnesses to attend the opening of the court. The Speaker said the members of the court had not held its first meeting at the time Mr. Sandys made his complaint in the House June 29.

Prime Minister Chamberlain rejected the suggestion, saying: "I think it's better to leave the matter where it is."

Labor backbenchers, objecting, raised points of order. Mr. Attlee then gave notice of a motion to refer back.

The motion means further debate, but in view of Mr. Chamberlain's opposition it has no hope of success.

ROUMANIANS MOURN PASSING OF MARIE, THEIR DOWAGER QUEEN

Marie, dowager queen of Roumania, attained international prominence by the important role she played in influencing the destiny of her adopted country during and after the World War.

English by birth but reigning as consort of a Hohenzollern, she was credited with keeping Roumania from being drawn into the struggle on the side of the central powers and ultimately bringing it into the struggle as one of the Allies. Its army was routed and the country forced to sue for an armistice in December, 1917, but in the end the kingdom was materially expanded and, as a member of the "Little Entente," along with Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia, became a pivotal state in the post-war Danubian problem.

CAROL'S COURSE

But while Roumania thus was involved in a changing political picture, Queen Marie had to struggle with tangled family affairs. Before her husband, King Ferdinand, died in 1927, her eldest son, Carol, had renounced his family and inheritance to live in France with an innamorata, Magda Lupescu. The throne therefore went to his five-year-old son Michael under a regency of five with Queen Marie and Prince Nicholas, her second son, as representatives of the dynasty.

That regime lasted until June, 1930, when Carol, by a spectacular airplane dash, returned to oust his son and reclaim the throne. The coup virtually erased his mother as a political force. She had played that role for many years, for King Ferdinand was inclined to leave state affairs to his ministers and his queen.

Out of the political picture thereafter, Marie devoted herself to literary work and charity. She was especially active in child welfare and was instrumental in having the playgrounds of Bucharest improved and extended. Although, as she admitted, she sometimes spent 12 hours a day at her writing, she was seen frequently at the opera and maintained a keen interest in the theatre.

She and Carol long remained estranged over his abandonment of his wife, former Princess Helen of Greece, for Marie had been largely instrumental in arranging that match. But Roumanians saw hope of a reconciliation between mother and son when, in October, 1936, she kissed equally by any other queen of her time. Yet she was democratic, friendly and approachable and altogether one of the most human of sovereigns.

Few royal consorts have wielded greater influence than did Queen Marie during the reign of her husband, King Ferdinand. Her great interest in her adopted country and its development began when she took up her residence in Roumania after her marriage to Ferdinand when he was still a prince.

BORN IN KENT

Marie was born at Eastwell Park, Kent, England, October 29, 1875. Her father, the second son of Queen Victoria, was Alfred, Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha and Duke of Edinburgh. Her mother was the Grand Duchess Marie Alexandrovna, only daughter of Alexander II, Czar of Russia. Marie was married to Ferdinand in 1893. They had six children of whom Prince Mircea, the youngest, died in childhood in 1916. The others are:

Prince Carol (now king), born in 1893, who married Princess Helen of Greece; Princess Elizabeth, born in 1894, who became the wife of former King George of Greece; Princess Marie, born in 1899, who was married to King Alexander of Yugoslavia; Prince Nicolas, born in 1903, and Princess Ileana, born in 1908.

Although Ferdinand and Marie ascended the thrones of Roumania in 1914, their coronation was delayed because of the World War and post-war conditions in their country until October, 1922. King Ferdinand died July 20, 1927.

In October of the previous year Queen Marie, accompanied by Prince Nicolas and Princess Ileana, traveled to the United States, ostensibly to dedicate a museum of fine arts built near Seattle by Samuel Hill, a former Red Cross officer in Roumania. During their five-weeks' stay they made a tour of many of the principal cities of the republic. They were received enthusiastically everywhere and at the White House President and Mrs. Coolidge gave a state dinner for them. They sailed for home November 23, their visit somewhat abbreviated because of the illness of King Ferdinand.

The trip was credited with being a factor in increasing U.S. investments in Roumania to more than $25,000,000 by 1930.

On her return home Queen Marie also left numerous acquaintances in Canada, her party having crossed from the United States and visited several cities in the Dominion.

Queen Marie spoke English, French, German, Roumanian and some Russian. She was an accomplished painter and photographer, an expert in the cultivation of flowers and was intensely interested in music and literature. Her visit to the United States and Canada she vividly described in her memoirs, "The Story of My Life," published in 1934. She was also the author of a novel, "The Mask," published in 1935.

TOKIO (CP-Havas)—The Japanese finance ministry decided Monday to cut into the Bank of Japan's gold reserve to ship specie abroad for the purchase of badly-needed raw materials.

This move already had been approved by financial advisers, including the foremost financial experts in the country.

Only cabinet approval—which is expected Tuesday—is needed to free the Bank of Japan's 800,000,000 yen gold stocks for shipment abroad.

This step was recommended last Friday by the price commission headed by Sotaro Ishiwatari of the Ministry of Finance for the stated purpose of bolstering Japan's sagging exports. The commission also recommended scaling down the prices of exported products 10 to 20 per cent.

Big Explosions At Oil Plant

Three Men Killed at Wells-ville, N.Y.; Losses Put at $5,000,000

WELLSVILLE—A spectacular explosion early today spread new havoc in the $15,000,000 Sinclair Oil Company refinery, where three men were killed and 75 injured in a fire and explosions last night, but firemen finally appeared to be bringing the fire under control.

A storage tank containing 2,500 barrels of naphtha exploded shortly before daybreak with a deafening roar and a cloud-sweeping flash of fire. No one was reported injured, but a similar tank, exploding last night, sky-rocketed clear across the nearby Genesee River and killed three spectators on the opposite bank.

Chief Hollin Johnston of the company's fire department said the damage, including business as well as stock and equipment, would amount to about $5,000,000.

Emergency calls for oil fire-fighting chemicals were broadcast through western New York and Pennsylvania after the new explosion today. Soon afterward, a 50,000-barrel tank of highly inflammable naphtha caught fire, and a crew of 100 firemen took their lives in their hands and approached close enough to snuff out the fire with chemicals.

NEWS SPREADS

The report spread quickly in Dublin there was "a crazy flier" in town, and it reached newspaper headlines just like that.

Corrigan sat munching sandwiches as airport officials pressed him to produce his landing papers.

"Really now, I thought I was heading for California," he beamed. "It was not until I saw your mountains here I realized it was not California."

The United States minister, John Cudahy, sent his car to the airport. It picked up the flier and delivered him to the legation. It is expected he will be the guest of the minister for several days.

Technically, Corrigan is under detention because of his lack of papers, but that did not seem to bother him.

He said he circled around the northern coast of Ireland after reaching the western coast and finally picked out Dublin's Baldonnel Airport for landing.

An Irish mail plane for London was just leaving when Corrigan set his rickety craft down.

SLIM CHANCES

Most airmen on this side of the Atlantic had not conceded the daring American one chance in a hundred of making the Atlantic crossing after reading cabled accounts of his "dilapidated" craft. Baldonnel, where he landed in fulfillment of the ambition he had nursed for more than a year to fly to Ireland, is the airfield on the outskirts of Dublin.

(Because of the Department of Commerce's rejection last year of his application for permission to make such a flight and because strict regulations cover such ocean trips, officials at Floyd Bennett field had doubted he would try a "sneak" hop.

The officials had believed he carried only one navigating map—of the United States with optional northern and southern routes across the continent.)

OFFICIALS STUMPED

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atlantic flight of Douglas P. Corrigan in homemade plane frankly flabbergasted the United States Air Commerce Bureau today.

Officials were so astonished they could not think immediately what to do about Corrigan's hopping off without a permit.

One official said: "It ain't right." Corrigan neither asked nor received a permit to fly to Europe. Regulations provided for penalties ranging from a fine to revocation of a pilot's license in such cases.

Dennis P. Mulligan, chief of the air commerce bureau, said he had postponed the question of punishment.

"It's a great day for the Irish," he commented with a broad grin. Instead of worrying about Corrigan's punishment, Mulligan said, "right now I want to make every effort to keep him from flying back."

Mulligan disclosed Corrigan had made some "overtures" about obtaining a permit for the flight and had been discouraged. The chief suggested Corrigan make no formal application because he knew it would be denied.

PLANE VALUED AT $900

NEW YORK (AP)—Before Douglas Corrigan arrived unheralded in New York slightly more than a week ago, his name was known only to pilots and west coast aviation experts. They ranked him as a fine craftsman and a man who knew airplanes thoroughly.

Shut off from the public eye because of the preparations for the Howard Hughes party's round-the-world flight, he landed in New York in his nine-year-old plane, on which he personally put a valuation of $900, after a 28-hour nonstop flight from Long Beach, Calif.

Experienced airmen were unanimous in acclaiming that feat, but they were astounded today by his unscheduled flight to Ireland in a plane which had few if any of the modern aides to flying.

The untalkative but agreeable transport pilot had his seat behind bulky gasoline tanks which obstructed his vision to such an extent he had to "bank" his 1929 Curtiss Robin plane when he wanted to look ahead on his course.

USED FOR TRAINING

The plane, small and much similar in equipment and weight to that used by Charles A. Lindbergh when the latter flew from New York to Paris in 1927, often was used a decade ago for student training purposes.

Those who had the opportunity of seeing Corrigan's plane at the New York field after his arrival from the west coast in slightly less than 28 hours' flying time said the instrument board contained a couple of magnetic compasses, the conventional bank and turn indicator and another instrument to indicate climb.

In addition, he had the usual air speed indicator and altimeter.

Corrigan was faced with the problem, in taking off across the wide Atlantic for Ireland, of plotting his course by dead reckoning—a doubly complex problem because he had to fly the airplane while he did his navigation work.

Lindbergh used the same system, equipped with only the sea-amen's sextant, in winning the $25,000 prize for the first New York-Paris eastward flight.

KNOWS LINDBERGH

Corrigan's flight and that of Lindbergh are even more intimately associated. The Irishman said he had worked on the Lindbergh Ryan monoplane before the Lone Eagle left southern California for his one-stop hop to New York prior to his take-off for Paris.

Little was known of Corrigan in New York. Mechanics at Floyd Bennett field said he was an expert in his own right, but had little to say about his non-stop exploit in spanning the continent last week.

He serviced his own plane, explaining he had only modest funds and preferred to save his money.

The timepiece he used in taking celestial readings was nothing but a moderately priced wrist watch.

Corrigan would have started from New York earlier on what was supposed to have been a flight back to the west coast, but Kenneth Behr, airport manager, refused to let him take off before daylight. Corrigan had told Behr he would like to leave in his plane, heavily laden with gasoline, at 1 a.m. E.S.T.

Behr refused him permission to use the field, fearing Corrigan might smash up his plane on a takeoff in the darkness.

Corrigan waited, on Behr's insistence, until 4.17 a.m. Then, with flares shedding light on the runway and floodlights bathing the airport, he raced across the field. Fire equipment and a police emergency squad stood by.

LONG RUN

Corrigan had some difficulty in getting away. He covered 3,000 feet of the longest runway at Floyd Bennett—4,200 feet—before the little plane could lift off.

Those who watched him were astonished when he banked slowly and headed eastward, instead of west. That was the first intimation the Irishman might be attempting a solo conquest of the Atlantic.

Even then, those acquainted with him surmised he must have altered course when he attained altitude and struck westward for the Pacific seaboard. They pointed out he had been refused permission by the government last year to fly to Ireland.

He flew without benefit of a parachute, for use in an emergency.

His plane, long out of production, is powered with a 175-H.P. motor, which is just 2,025 less horsepower than Howard Hughes had in circling the world last week in a transport machine.

Seven persons had flown the North Atlantic solo before Corrigan: Lindbergh, Amelia Earhart, James Mollison, James Matting, Wiley Post, Felix Waukiss and Beryl Markham.

SECOND DEATH FROM BEATING

TWO HILLS, Alta. (CP)—Second to die from a severe beating, Florence Wasalasko, seven, succumbed in the hospital at Vegreville today while police intensified the search for Harry Shire, 33, in this district 75 miles east of Edmonton.

Seven-months' old Raymond Shire, son of the farmer being sought by police, was found dead in the farm home Friday when Florence Wasalasko and three others were found badly beaten. Mrs. Shire, 29, is in serious condition from head injuries. James Wasalasko, 10, and Peter Antonluk, 18, who were also found beaten, are improving.

FIRES SET RECORD

Nearly 3,000 forest firemen were spread out today from the Oregon-California border to the timberlands of British Columbia in a fight against one of the greatest outbreaks of forest fires in the Pacific Northwest in recent years.

The largest mobilization of fire crews was on a 15-mile front, about 19 miles north of Longview, Wash., where an estimated 25,000 acres, mostly cut-over land, had already been covered by flames.

An estimated 850 men, who battled this blaze in the Rydewood-Mt. Abernethy district without sleep or rest Saturday night, were recalled to the fire lines yesterday as the flames spread.

Oregon's most serious fire was on the headquarters of the Chetco River, Siskiyou National Forest, where an additional 150 men were ordered to the fire lines to aid 250 already battling a 100 acre blaze. Parachute loads of supplies were dropped to the fire fighters by airplanes. Several other fires were reported in Oregon, one chasing hundreds of head of livestock out of their grazing area.

Ten miles east of Marblemount in the Mount Baker national forest, Washington, another major blaze was out of control in a virgin stand.

Fire lanes surrounding the Toandos Peninsula blaze, 25 miles northwest of Seattle, successfully penned in the forest in-

Canada's Problem Province

Quebec Corporate State Idea Would Outlaw Trades Union Bargaining

By J. B. McGEACHY

No. 7

LABOR LAWS passed in Quebec in the last two years are as important—in their possible effect on people's lives and as evidence of a Fascist drift—as the more celebrated padlock law. Unfortunately, the labor laws are a complicated technical subject. What they will mean in practice seems to be debatable. Not learned in these laws, I can only report that two prominent leaders of Quebec labor told me they indicated Duplessis's intention to "destroy the trade unions."

These two leaders were Gustav Francq, secretary of the Quebec Federation of Labor, and Paul Fournier, executive of the Milliners' union. I went to see Mr. Fournier as the leader of a new Labor party just born in Quebec. Disagreeing on some points, they both told me Duplessis was an enemy of hypocrisy and political wind music. Duplessis's statement made two weeks ago in Montreal—that he is labor's bosom friend and willing at any time to submit his labor legislation to a test at the polls.

One local peculiarity in labor organization has to be noted—the existence in Quebec of "Catholic syndicate" workers of the Roman Catholic faith organized in unions generally with priestly guidance. The public is used to hearing about conflict between A. F. of L. and C.I.O. unions. This battle hasn't started yet in Quebec or not overtly at any rate. Some Quebec unions are C.I.O., but none has been expelled from the Quebec Federation of Labor. The battle for membership in Quebec is between international unions—for whom Mr. Francq and Mr. Fournier speak—and the Catholic syndicates which have no affiliation outside the province.

TABOO CLASS STRUGGLE

Leaders of the syndicates lean to the idea of a corporate state, a state in which strikes, bargaining by individual unions and the "class struggle" generally would be taboo. Alfred Charpentier, their executive chief, has said corporatism is their ideal. They are encouraged by their clergy to take that line. Here they clash with the international unions, but the cleavage is not complete.

Priests have led strikes in small factory towns. I was told five priests were lately removed from posts in the Gaspé peninsula, said to be Canada's most poverty-stricken spot, because they were active in aiding and abetting Gaspé fishermen in demands for higher prices from the fish companies. Last year's textile strike in Quebec was conducted by Catholic syndicates.

Yet in general—I was told—the syndicates are less militant than the international unions. They are not gaining in membership, my informants said, and cannot hold their present strength except in towns and industries where the working population is exclusively French and Catholic. Present strength of the rival organizations in Quebec was given to me by Mr. Fournier—as 80,000 in international unions, 30,000 in Catholic syndicates. Available Ottawa publications on labor do not permit a checking of these figures. They do not quote membership by provinces.

OBJECT TO LAWS

At least three of Duplessis's labor measures—possibly more—are objectionable to union leaders. The simplest is bill 88 of the 1938 session, making trade unions, even if not incorporated and so possessed of a "civil personality," liable for damage actions. Either an officer of the union collectively may be sued. "A union can be sued out of existence," Mr. Francq said to me, commenting on this measure. "It is clearly intended to destroy labor organizations." No action under bill 88 has yet been lodged. It is only two months old.

The other laws to which labor objects are more complicated.

Under an act of 1937 the Quebec government has power, when a wage and power agreement is signed by any "bona fide" union and an employer, to make the terms apply to all similar factories in the province. So that if, for instance, the cloak makers in one shop make a bargain, the government may rule that the same agreement is in force throughout the cloak-making industry in Quebec. This Duplessis law was not opposed by labor, though the words "bona fide" caused some suspicion, but a 1938 law, just passed, arouses violent antagonism. The government now has authority to "amend"—with no consultation of the parties—any labor agreement extended to cover the province.

1938 LAW FEARED

Labor men are equally disturbed about another 1938 enactment. A 1937 Duplessis law made it a punishable offence to "prevent an employee from becoming a member of an association." The 1938 version of the same law makes it an offence to dismiss a worker to prevent him from obtaining work, or to try to prevent him from obtaining work, because he belongs to a union, or—and this is the clause to which the trade unionists object—because he is not. That law makes it impossible for any union to maintain a closed shop. It also forbids, as labor men understand it, peaceful picketing or any attempt to dissuade strike-breakers.

These new labor laws, as some see them in Quebec, are clearer indications of a Fascist tendency in Mr. Duplessis than the padlock law. Their net effect, it is argued, will be to destroy the effectiveness of unions as bargaining associations. One of them, as noted, gives the government absolute authority to fix and vary wages and hours in any Quebec industry. If that power is fully exercised, some say, the international unions will have to fold up.

LEADER ENTHUSIASTIC

Mr. Francq talked to me most of a morning about labor organizations in Quebec. He is a plump, pink-faced, white-haired veteran in the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada. He told me with enthusiasm that the international unions had gained 10,000 members in Quebec in two years. "In that time," he said, "trades and labor councils have appeared in Three Rivers, St. Hyacinthe and Sherbrooke, which means that there are at least seven unions in each city. There were none at all before."

Mr. Francq is bitterly opposed to the Duplessis labor laws, but he thinks there is little danger of Fascism in Quebec. "It won't happen here unless the church gives the lead," he said, "and I don't think the church will. Neither Fascism nor Communism suits the temperament of the French-Canadian."

I asked Mr. Francq what he thought of the new Labor party, "l'Action-Démocratique," launched lately in Montreal. He wished the movement well but was skeptical about its success. "I used to be active in promoting a Canadian labor party," he said. "I proposed a motion for creation of a labor party at a Trades and Labor congress in—let me see, now, how long ago was that?" He pulled down a book from a shelf and found that it was at Victoria, B.C., in 1906.

FOURNIER OPTIMISTIC

"Most of my life," Mr. Francq told me, "I fought the ideas of Sam Gompers but now I'm con-

Costly Indifference

PRACTICALLY EVERY PART OF THIS province is as dry as tinder—all the wooded areas, buildings of every sort in the rural districts, and all the varied species of vegetation. A burning cigarette end, cigar butt, an unextinguished match tossed out of an automobile, or carelessly dropped anywhere may start a conflagration threatening human life and the destruction of valuable timber and property.

Each year, by publicity campaigns, by every form of government and newspaper exhortation, the same warnings are issued—the same reminder that a careless public is, by its thoughtlessness, helping to destroy what after all is its own property, and endangering the lives and livelihood of hundreds of citizens.

British Columbia's Chief Forester Manning, aided by the provincial government in its newspaper publicity campaigns, has employed every means at his disposal to bring home to those people who use the outdoors in the pursuit of business or pleasure the absolute necessity of care in the use of fire in any form. Loggers should be compelled to clear up the slashings which result from their operations. The effects of the government's annual campaigns to cut down the number and cost of forest fires will be measured very largely by its insistence on forest "tidiness."

Chief Forester Manning, by the way, has just issued a few more "Don'ts" to the long list which are now—or should be—familiar to all who use the forests. Here they are:

Don't leave bottles or glass jars around. They may focus the sun's rays into the beginning of a fire.

Don't light a camp fire unless you have a forest service permit.

Don't be careless with matches—even for a moment.

Don't throw away cigarettes—put them out.

Don't leave luncheon and picnic debris around to become a fire hazard.

Don't empty your pipe dottle on the window of your car or train.

It ought not to be necessary at this stage to remind the public that not only do forest fires damage valuable public and private property and curtail the demand for productive labor; they also menace the business of lucrative travel to this province. We boast of our scenery on Vancouver Island, in other parts of British Columbia, publicize it as an asset of great price; but if we, by our carelessness, behave ourselves in the open air as if we did not care one jot or tittle about its value we get just what we deserve. A landscape smeared with forest fire smoke and smell is a poor attraction for the visitor from afar.

What They Did in Bothell

ABOUT TEN MILES FROM THE MUNICIPAL limits of the city of Seattle there is a community known as Bothell, boasting a population of less than a thousand, with no particularly outstanding appeal beyond a progressive spirit. It is that spirit, however, to which it is worth while to draw especial attention.

Ten months ago Bothell High School Drill Band was organized, comprising 27 boys and 23 girls, with ages ranging from 12 to 18. Thirty-five of them did not understand even the rudiments of producing harmony from the various instruments which go to make up such a musical organization. Mark Hart undertook to teach them the fundamentals of march music and to train them in the intricacies of all that is colorful in parade drill.

These preliminaries were a problem of less than a year ago. At the Royal Athletic Park on Saturday night—and again yesterday afternoon in Beacon Hill Park—a large crowd of Victorians manifested a quality and volume of enthusiasm which it is to be hoped pleased Mark Hart and his talented company. They may at least interpret it as an expression of the hope that a long list of triumphs awaits them.

This Bothell High School Band is now a finished product in its type of orchestral ensemble. The precision of its drill numbers puts it in a class with the expert and experienced display teams of the various Shrine temples of this continent. This city was fortunate to have the opportunity of seeing these boys and girls from Bothell perform. Is their visit to be a reminder to Victoria that it is a community of less than a 1,000 can turn out such an organization, we might well do something about one of our own?

Seven Years Too Late

SIR JOHN SIMON, CHANCELLOR OF THE EXCHEQUER in the Chamberlain ministry, told the British House of Commons the truth on Friday when he said:

"If we don't succeed, and the world does not succeed, in finding some way in which we can stop the inflow of this ever-increasing expenditure on armaments, then, indeed, the future we are preparing for our children is one at which we may shudder."

Sir John, originally a Liberal member of Parliament and minister in successive Liberal administrations, more recently National Liberal Foreign Secretary in the Conservative regime (called the "National Government") from 1931 to 1935, and now Chancellor of the Exchequer, was in charge of the Foreign Office when Soviet Russia's Maxim Litvinoff told the Disarmament Conference in 1932 the only way to disarm was to disarm, when Japan grabbed Manchuria, when Italy marched into Ethiopia, when Germany reoccupied the demilitarized Rhineland and tore up all that was left of the treaties of Versailles and Locarno. He has been one of Mr. Chamberlain's chief lieutenants while Germany and Italy have been thumbing their noses at Britain as they helped, and are still helping, Insurgent General Franco to try to win the civil war in Spain.

The time for Sir John Simon to have sent a shudder down the backs of the members of the House of Commons was when Japan began her program of conquest in China and tried to justify her action for breaking her pledged word on a pure fabrication which the commission, appointed by the League of Nations and headed by Lord Lytton, exposed in unmistakable terms.

Most of the rearming program in which the nations of the world have indulged since 1931 finds its origin in the lack of leadership which should have and could have been given at that time by the world's three principal democracies.

Printing Only "Good" News

SO OFTEN ARE NEWSPAPERS TOLD they should print only optimistic news and suppress the "unfavorable," that we think it well to reproduce here the reply of the Chicago Tribune's editor to a proposal from a large refrigerator manufacturer. The latter sent letters to his dealers urging them to demand only "constructive" news on the front pages of newspapers in order to make advertising more productive. The Tribune's published reply said:

"Lots of people would like to see nothing but optimistic news in their papers. That kind of a paper, they think, would help sell goods. It might for a time, but the newspaper which withheld bad news as a matter of business policy wouldn't long hold the confidence of its readers. That would be bad for the owners and equally bad for the advertisers."

"Some publishers may be short-sighted enough to ruin themselves for the sake of a temporary increase in advertising revenues. The rest will continue to publish the truth as they see it and decline the bribes."

"One other point may be stressed. If a newspaper is justified in perverting the truth in the direction of optimism, it is also justified in doing so in the direction of pessimism. If it is proper for a newspaper to accept a cash premium for being unduly optimistic, it may also accept a cash premium for taking the gloomy view. The newspaper which sells out to the highest bidder can sell out to a group of stock exchange bears as well as to any other business group."

Readers look to newspapers for a presentation of a cross-section of the day's news. In the nature of things, a proportioned picture of the current scene must always be a varying mixture of "favorable" and "unfavorable." Often the "unfavorable" is in the long run constructive. The printing only of optimistic items would distort the picture and in the end defeat its objective. Ultimately, inasmuch as it upsets the natural balance, it would intensify the condition it was sought to avert. Readers would soon become skeptical of even the most substantially constructive items.

A more descriptive term for the kind of weather we're having now would be "hot-dog days."

RELIEF AS AN ELECTION FACTOR IN SASKATCHEWAN

From the Canadian Forum

The Social Credit invasion, by adding to the multiplicity of opposition candidates, no doubt helped the government in the Saskatchewan general election of June 8, even if the Liberal victory is a tribute to the efficiency of the Liberal machine as well as to that of the Patterson administration. A glance at the Liberal and C.C.F. gains and losses, however, suggests that other significant factors operated to favor the government.

After the grim years of drought and depression, a strong protest vote might have been expected, but the large relief area of the province went for the government, while the northeast, which has suffered least from drought and crop failure and was excluded from the government's debt adjustment scheme, returned an almost solid bloc of C.C.F. members. The sorely-pressed voters of the droughty area, dependent on the government for food and clothing, seed, feed, tractor fuel, etc., until a crop is harvested again, simply could not afford the luxury of protest. Very little rain had fallen in the two weeks before the election and no farmer could know whether he would be able to live without relief next winter. Finally, Premier Patterson had promised $2,000,000, from the federal treasury since the provincial had long been empty, to buy tractor fuel and horse feed for summer fallow operations.

The executives of mortgage companies and banks breathed easier for the defeat of Social Credit. "Representatives of eastern institutions who have been on the ground watching events were overjoyed," said the Toronto Globe and Mail, June 10. "They saw in the Patterson victory a further guarantee of the stability of western bonds and mortgages held in Ontario. Saskatchewan has rejected the principle of debt repudiation," was their comment. "These people can and will pay all their obligations." Such statements invite the suspicion that our eastern financial barons and their henchmen learn little from experience and still have their heads well buried in the sand.

SPIDER'S WEB

THE NEW BRIDGE is strung across the First Narrows of Vancouver now, airy as a spider's web. You feel you could reach up from a boat and tear it aside with your hand, but when you get close to it, you find the main cables 16 inches thick and the steel towers built almost for eternity. Almost, but not quite. I met an old man gazing from the shores of Stanley Park at the metal tangle of the bridge and he said it would be gone soon; in a few hundred years.

"And look yonder," said he, with a wild glance in his eye. "See that sand bar there, over on the north shore? It is growing. See those hills over there? They are pouring down their rocks, speck by speck, through the ages. They're rolling the pebbles down the creeks, grinding them up into sand and mud. It rolls down, a few specks every hour. It is piling up on that sand bar there and the sand bar is thrusting out into the Narrows. Oh, it takes time, but Nature is in no hurry. In a little while, after a million years or so, that sand bar will come right across the Narrows. Nature is bridging the Narrows in her own way. She is making an inland sea of Burrard Inlet, locking it in. After a while it will be a lake of brackish water and some day a lake of fine-fresh water, miles from the sea. It takes only a year or so to build a fragile bridge like that steel one there, but it won't last, you know. It won't last. Nature's bridge will last. It will last to the end of time. And then Vancouver won't be a port any longer."

He laughed a hollow laugh, like the Ancient Mariner. "But there won't be any Vancouver then," he said. "And all this steel will have rusted away to dust. Just give the mountains over there a few years. Just give Nature time to work and you'll have a real bridge."

He stalked off with an air of profound satisfaction. I thought he must be a scientist, but I found out he was an old fellow who merely spends his time sitting on park benches. He had read a piece about Nature's bridge in the Daily Province. I know that, for I read it myself there, almost word for word. But it must sound fine to strangers. It will give the old man something to talk about to strangers all summer, and has the advantage of being true.

NO MINK

ANOTHER OLD MAN I met in a boar parlour told me an equally important fact about life in British Columbia. He said there wasn't a mink coat in the province. "Not one real mink coat," he said. "I should know. I've got a thousand mink on my place and all the skins go to England. You've seen mink coats here, eh? Sure, but what are they? They're brown colored, aren't they? Sure, anyone can have a brown mink coat, but they don't count. Those are culls. There are no real black mink coats. No one has a mink coat like that."

He became quite violent in his assertion and started to pound the table until the beer spilled all over it. "All the good skins go to England," he cried. "The ones you see the women wearing here are fakes, or culls. Don't let any of the women fool you. They haven't got a mink coat, I tell you, not real mink!" The table was covered with froth by this time and the waiter told us he wouldn't permit fighting.

TOUCH STEAK

THEN I RAN INTO my old friend, Bill, who recently confessed to me, in the dark secrecy of the park at night, that he had abandoned the Russian Revolution and would have nothing more to do with it. Bill always has some important idea like that to spring at you in a defenceless moment. This time he wanted to talk about God.

"I tell you," said Bill, gesticulating wildly with his fork over a steak on the North Shore, "we have put God out of our civilization. I tell you, all the religious beliefs that we had as young people have gone so far as they affect the world today. We're not even good pagans any more. The pagans did believe in something. They believed in the seasons, in the rain, in the earth, in the spring and the autumn, in fire and food, and in themselves. We don't believe in anything."

"Look," said Bill, waving a piece of steak at the other people who were eating dinner in the rustic inn, "what do they believe in? Do they believe in the seasons, in the spring and the rain and the earth, and in good food? They don't know what I'm talking about. They've never dug in the earth in their lives and when it comes to food they order ple a la mode. Do they even believe in themselves? No, sir, they do not! I tell you, we don't believe in anything any more! A few people still profess faith, but religion has no effect whatever any more on the conduct of our civilization. If you doubt it, look at the state of the world today. We have put God out of our civilization and we have put back nothing in His place. Nothing but Hitler and Mussolini and Stalin and Clark Gable and Bill Aberhart. Yes, and even this steak is tough." He seemed to think that most serious of all.

JAPAN'S SAD ADMIRAL

Admiral Okeda, who was Prime Minister of Japan two years ago, is the saddest man in Tokyo today. . . . In 1936 a group of Japanese, intent upon a coup d'etat, entered Okeda's home and murdered the man they found there. Emperor Hirohito thereupon publicly lamented the admiral's death. . . . The next day the true story was unearthed—the Okeda had escaped assassination and that his brother-in-law was the one slain. . . . Despite this good fortune, Admiral Okeda has lost caste with Japan's citizens, who insist that he should have committed harikari—because he had disgraced the Emperor. . . . disgraced him in returning to Life, thereby becoming living testimony to the fact that the Emperor had uttered an untruth in lamenting Okeda's death.

The nation without principles and without ideals is predestined for defeat and humiliation. Alexander Troyanovsky, Russian Ambassador to the United States.

Third Party Rise Seen Probable Result Of Tory 'Expediency'

By NORMAN MACLEOD

OTTAWA.

THE SITUATION, from the standpoint of federal Conservatism and of believers in the predominant two-party system in Canada, is serious. A Manion leadership in itself, had the Convention adopted a strong, virile platform, would have been little more significant than an interesting experiment. But a Manion leadership, resulting from a belief in the expediency of coinciding with a platform which "trims" on every single issue save railway amalgamation, is looked upon in Liberal as well as Independent circles on Parliament Hill as grave threat to federal political stability.

The new Conservative platform, in brief, is recognized as defective in the fact that it expresses no definite political philosophy. It is not an alternative to Liberalism. It offers no rallying planks for the reform element in Conservatism that cheered the encyclopedic address in which Mr. Bennett declared that at no time had he introduced legislation which was not expressly authorized by the platform of the Winnipeg convention.

For once Hon. W. D. Herridge was right when, in a dramatic excess of protest against clause after clause of literary ambiguity issued from the master-minds who were drafting the platform, he seized the microphone and characterized the resolutions as "a lot of useless junk," and "an insult to the intelligence of Democracy" and as certain to compass the ruin of the Conservative Party.

THE HERRIDGE interruption, and his retirement to the delegate's shout of "throw him out," which must have fallen rudely on ears accustomed to the more polite if less picturesque speech of diplomatic embassies, was not the least significant feature of the recent convention. For Mr. Herridge, although he has failed as yet to make his reform views effective in Conservative policy, is a symbol of a reform wing which has been growing up during recent years in federal Toryism. He is symbolic, actually, of the crusading element which Hon. "Harry" Stevens, recently returned prodigal, also represents. The question which the convention leaves behind it, consequently, is how Herridge and Stevens and the followers for whom they stand can remain within the fold of Toryism and support the most innocuous platform which any political party in Canada has ever devised.

As Parliament Hill sees it, the situation left by the Tory platform calls inevitably for the creation of a new radical party capable of fusing and absorbing the Herridges, the Stevenses, the McGeers, and the Tuckers. Such a development is looked upon as not only ultimately certain, but as an early probability.

The belief widely held in federal circles is that Prime Minister King slept more soundly after he read the new Tory platform—unless he worried about the future of the two-party system in Canada.

See Business Moving Upward

WASHINGTON.

MANY outstanding economists in Washington are now beginning to believe that business has left the bottom of the 1937-38 depression and is proceeding upward toward another period of recovery.

Even some conservative experts who until recently feared that any marked early upturn would be followed by a sharp drop in business activity during autumn have now lost their skepticism. And many expect the wheels of industry to be whirling merrily by January.

Chief difference in confidential forecasts available is a diversity of opinion as to the probable rate of acceleration of the upswing. The stock market is something else again, in the opinion of some of the canny government experts, who believe its recent spurt was not justified by the relatively small business pickup and that stock prices previously had held up well as compared with the precipitous decline of industrial production. A sharp market drop would cause no surprise in Washington.

BUSINESS TRENDS

The Federal Reserve Board industrial production index figure of 76 showed no change for June, indicating a leveling off, and weekly indexes show something of a subsequent increase. Production fell off far more drastically than consumption until a few weeks ago.

Now, according to confidential new figures, department store sales indicative of the retail trend—have stopped declining for

ADVERTISE IN THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES

Young Band To Give Program

Victoria Philharmonic Orchestral Society Will Play Wednesday in Park

A group of enterprising young Victoria musicians, known as the Victoria Philharmonic Orchestral Society, will present a concert on Wednesday evening at 7.30 in Beacon Hill Park. The band is directed by Alfred Prescott and its appearance will be sponsored by the B.C. Electric with the permission of the City Parks Board.

The orchestra is composed of young musicians who studied music at Victoria High School, and since leaving school have expressed the wish to continue their studies as an organized group. Under Mr. Prescott's direction they have practiced steadily and have now reached the stage where they are ready for a public appearance.

The assisting artists with the orchestra will be Miss Winnifred Applegarth and Thomas Crabbe. Through the personal interest of A. T. Goward, vice-president of the B.C. Electric, this public concert was made possible under the company's sponsorship. Additional concerts may be given during August.

The program for Wednesday's performance follows: "Marche Militaire" (Saint Saens); "Overture to Rosamunde" (Schubert); "Valse, 'Gold and Silver'" (Lehar); selection from "The Student Prince" (Romberg); Intermezzo, "Wedding of the Rose" (Jessel); suite from "Carmen" (Bizet); three dances from "Henry the Eighth" (German); "God Save the King."

Community Concert Reports Are Given

A business meeting of the Community Concert Association was held at the Y.W.C.A. on Friday evening when final reports of the campaign held in May were given. The president, Mrs. Allon Peabees, was in the chair.

The reports show 468 members have enrolled, an increase of 94 over last year's number.

The artists who will appear include: Dorothy Crawford, in character monologues; Mr. Dalies Frantz, pianist, and Kathryn Meisle, contralto.

It was decided to have the Community Concert Association executive separate from the Musical Arts Society, and the following were elected to office: President, Mrs. Allon Peabees; secretary, Mrs. Duncan MacBride; treasurer, Mrs. Arthur R. Walsh.

Stursberg Finds Vienna Not So Gay; Nazis Ousting Jews, But Court Socialists

By PETER STURSBURG VIENNA.

BY NOW you should know that the Danube is not blue and Vienna is not gay. As a matter of fact the Nazis regard this general world conception of a gay Vienna as so much Jewish propaganda emanating mainly from Hollywood which they think is a Jewish propaganda machine, though they are quite willing to show many of the pictures produced there in Germany.

The Nazis say that this Hollywood nonsense, for, of course, it is nonsense, makes the Viennese out to be a dissolute crowd who never do any real work. On the other hand I think it makes them out to be a delightfully happy people, but that is where the Nazis and I disagree.

If there was any gaiety in Vienna, and I imagine it was only for a particular class, it died with the world war. When the Socialists came into power they put a stop to most of the night life by closing down the street car service at 10 o'clock in the evening, for they said that night life was only for the bourgeois and they weren't going to run any proletarian street cars for them.

The way Hitler conquered Austria and the Gay Vienna nonsense make us think of the Austrians as an easy-going crowd who don't like a row. As a matter of fact, the Anschluss came as a complete surprise and after all the Austrians are Germans and this had been hammered into them by the Socialists for 20 years.

The Austrians are among the most revolutionary people in the world. In Vienna there have been four revolutions since the world war which must be a record for any city. The Socialists of Austria were continually preaching class struggle. They were so far left that there were no Communists in Austria.

And the revolutionary spirit of Vienna is something the Nazis had better remember if they take the cream out of the Austrian coffee, a foreign correspondent told me.

Now the Nazis are making a tremendous play for the Socialists. They have taken about 10,000 of them to Germany to show them how contented the German workers are. The leaders were asked to speak when they returned. Some of them said the German workers were not as badly off as the Schuschnigg government had claimed, but they were very much worse off than the Nazis claimed. These gentlemen got a one-way ticket to Dachau, the great German concentration camp.

I went down to see the Karl Marx Hof, now called the Heiligenstadt, but not by the inhabitants who are still mostly Socialists. It is a mile and a half walk around this great apartment block which is a fine example of modernistic architecture and which was one of the 620 houses built by the Socialist government. I noticed that aside from the great swastika drapes, which I imagine had to be put up, not many of the apartments had swastika flags or decorations.

VIENNA has been squeezed slowly like a pea out of its pod. Once it was the capital of the Austro-Hungarian Empire, then the capital of the Austrian Republic. Now it is the capital of nothing, not even a province. It is a gau or district, one of the seven into which Austria has been divided in the greater Germany. Yet this is the city whose location on the Danube, the great waterway of Europe, makes it ideal for a capital of Mittel Europa, that Teutonic dream and scheme.

In the Anschluss, Vienna lost not only prestige. Its business received a blow from which it has not recovered yet. You cannot cut off the buying power of 250,000 people without feeling some effects.

The plight of the Jew in Vienna is pitiable. I had heard of some of the atrocities from foreigners who were simply disgusted at the Nazis. I went down into the Jewish quarters around the Tabor Strasse and saw Jewish stores, their signs smeared with black paint and insults scrawled over their windows. In the Augarten, a park in the middle of the Jewish quarters, I could not find a seat which was not marked only for Aryans.

What I could not understand was how these people lived. Their businesses gone, their cars and some of their money taken from them, what were they doing to keep body and soul together. I did hear of soup kitchens but I could never get a satisfactory explanation. I also was told that as long as a Jew kept his money in a bank it was safe.

Of course, the Nazis want the Jews to get out, but they are not making it at all easy for them to get out. They only allow them to take a small amount of money, consequently there is a tremendous amount of illegal exchange going on. I know many foreigners who are getting six marks to the dollar instead of two marks 40 pfennigs, the usual rate, and four marks, the tourist rate. I have heard of people getting as high as 10 marks to the dollar. It is a case of something or nothing to the Jews.

I went to see the U.S. vice-consul in Vienna, and he told me that 75,000 people had applied for visas since February. Not all of these were Jews, some were quarter and half Jews and some of them were Gentiles, but most of them came under the Nurnberg anti-Semitic laws.

Though the consul did not tell me how many had received visas I was told that 20,000 Jews have left or have their papers for leaving. These are not going to the United States alone but to all countries.

When I was in a bank in Vienna, a Jew who was still working as a clerk there, which was amazing enough, asked me if it was possible for Jews to immigrate to Canada.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in a thousand years there was no representative of government in the great Corpus Christi procession in Vienna this year.

Standing in the shadow of St. Stephen's tall spire, I watched the procession which was just as well attended by laymen despite Nazi disapproval and counter demonstration which I had seen on the way down, marching and singing lustily quite close to the cathedral. The procession with its holy pictures and priests in their long flowing robes, all so venerable, made a strange contrast to the red swastika banners in which Vienna was covered and which look so much like Communist flags.

Despite Cardinal Innitzer becoming Hitler's Yes Man No. 1, and in the process almost creating a schism in the Papacy, the Nazis have shown no gratitude and are just as hostile as ever to the Roman Catholics.

Of course the whole Catholic press and the property of most of the great Catholic organizations have been confiscated. Beside Jews, Communists, Socialists, and Liberals, there are many Catholics in Dachau, some of whom are among the concentration camp's prize possessions, for they were the former government of Austria.

Every cloister and monastery in Austria now has a Nazi Com-

BICYCLE TOUR PARTY COMING

Forty Young People From Eastern United States to Cycle on Island

On their annual tour across the continent, 40 boys and girls of the American Youth Hostels Association will arrive tomorrow and will bicycle around the Saanich Peninsula, spending the night at the new Youth Hostel at Mount Douglas.

The party is traveling in a "rolling hostel," which is daily sidetracked to permit the young tourists to cover the surrounding country either afoot or on bicycles they carry with them.

Expenses amount to one cent a mile and are kept within each youth's budget of $1 a day for the two months the trip takes.

The group arrives early each day and the kitchen detail provides breakfast. Every day of the journey the boys and girls provide their own meals, under the supervision of Mrs. Karl Kautzold, wife of the director of the tour.

One of the "youths" is Mrs. Dorothy Smallwood of Washington, D.C., who decided that what was good enough for the children ought to be good enough for herself, so she is traveling as chaperon to her three children.

The group came across Canada in a colonist car of the Canadian National Railways and from Victoria will head to California before returning to their starting point, East Northfield, Mass.

RUSSIA NOT WANTING WAR

To the question whether war will come soon, Russia's answer is that the outlook at present is for peace. In the following story, John Evans, general foreign editor of the Associated Press, tells how the country is busy with internal problems and does not want war.

MOSCOW—Moscow's inscrutable Kremlin is one of three places where a "yes" or "no" may determine whether there shall be another world war—soon. Soviet authorities say the present prospect is peace.

Russia and France are the two great countries committed to the defence of Czechoslovakia against seizure by Nazi Germany, four times her size.

Two others with million-men armies are Chancellor Hitler of Germany and Premier Mussolini of Italy, allied against Communism. Mussolini is Hitler's ally, but it is considered probable he would stay out of any German dispute with Czechoslovakia.

There is no reason to doubt Russia and Germany mean the hostile things each says about the other's political creed, but they trade heavily with one another. Germany, in fact, supplies much of the machinery with which Russia makes tanks.

Russia has reason to desire peace. The five year plan lags in spots and there is a great shortage of material things for the people.

Long lines wait at store to buy, but frequently can't get the things they want. Some of this shortage may be because Russia gives first thought to armament.

In any case, Russia is trying desperately to make soap, socks, automobiles, tanks, airplanes and cannon, and she would not welcome a war to defend someone else. War would interrupt her economic development and might encourage trouble with Japan on the Far Eastern border, 4,000 miles away.

missar. There is a legitimate reason for this, as, firstly some of the art-treasures were being exported and, secondly, guns and ammunition were found in these religious institutions. It is an actual fact that not only rifles but machine guns were found in many monasteries and in the Monastery of Melk, whose huge baroque buildings I saw on the way down the Danube, there were two anti-aircraft guns.

In Vienna I was told that the Nazis had prepared some kind of a form for a Catholic to sign away his religion, but I was never able to get hold of one of these documents.

The plight of the nobility in Austria is only second to the Jews. The Nazis like to think of the old Germany, but they don't want any of the old parasites back. Most of nobles who lived nobly under the Socialists are now penniless exiles. Prince Starhemberg, in whose fate there is some justice, is in Switzerland. His mother is living off friends in Buda Pest. One of Starhemberg's many castles was at Durnstein, where I stayed on the trip down the Danube. It was confiscated by the government and sold to the hotel in the town.

R. D. Harvey Praises Conservative Chief

No man was better equipped to lead the Conservative party in Canada than Dr. R. J. Manion, said R. D. Harvey, president of the Victoria Conservative Association on his return from attending the recent Conservative convention in Ottawa. There were 70 delegates at the meetings from British Columbia.

Dr. Manion would bring harmony within the ranks of Conservatives throughout Canada, Mr. Harvey said.

B.C. Conservatives supplied one of the most important resolutions to the convention that regarding Empire policy and assisted British immigration to Canada.

Mr. Harvey had praise for the part taken in the convention by young Conservatives from many parts of Canada.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE — And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

The liver should pour out two pounds of fluid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile isn't flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmonious and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of a thousand but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

1938 Progress

London Life representatives have established three outstanding records this year in extending the services of life insurance to the Canadian public.

- For the first quarter of the year, the sale of Ordinary Life Insurance reached a new high level.
- For the second quarter the new Ordinary Life Insurance sold exceeded the above record by a substantial margin.
- June was the best month in the Company's history for Ordinary Insurance sales.

This last achievement is all the more remarkable since it exceeded June of last year by more than 50%, and was twice as large as June of 1936. This record was made possible by the work of the salesmen of Ordinary Insurance in both branches and does not include Industrial nor Group Insurance.

During the past five years, London Life representatives have further improved the quality of their service. You will find their message to be of interest and value.

Well-known Couple Wed Saturday

Miss Daphne Allen Becomes Bride of Mr. Brice Evans

A marriage of much interest in Victoria, as well as throughout Canada, was quietly solemnized at St. John's Anglican Church, Vancouver, on Saturday afternoon at 4 between Daphne, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Allen of Calgary, formerly of The Uplands, Victoria, to Mr. Brice S. Evans, formerly of Victoria, son of Mr. Brice S. Evans, Sr., of Brooklyn, N.Y., and the late Mrs. Evans, and nephew of Mrs. C. F. Armstrong of Victoria.

Given in marriage by Mr. Allen, the blonde bride was an attractive figure in her imported suit of powder blue featherweight wool, the skirt front finished with a group of pleats, the three-quarter coat collared in blue fox. With it she wore a French blouse of pink, and a tucked and swathed turban to match the suit. Her corsage bouquet was of pink rosebuds and lilies of the valley.

Rev. Willoughby Lamb officiated at the service, for which the church had been beautifully decorated with flowers. The bride was unattended and Mr. Bob Driscoll of Victoria was groomsmen. Among the guests were Mrs. C. F. Armstrong and Mrs. M. F. Driscoll of Victoria.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the private suite at the Hotel Vancouver, which was beautifully arranged with gladioli, Mr. and Mrs. Allen, parents of the bride, and Mrs. Armstrong of Victoria, receiving with the young couple.

The bride and bridegroom left later for Jasper Park Lodge, where they will spend two weeks before returning to Victoria to visit Mrs. Armstrong, York Place. They will then leave to make their home temporarily in Toronto, where the bridegroom will continue his law studies at Osgoode Hall. En route east, they will visit in Calgary and also visit the bride's grandparents, Mr. Alfred K. Andrews, K.C., and Mrs. Andrews, in Winnipeg.

FLOWMAN—RYLES

At St. Alban's Church on Saturday evening at 8, Rev. F. Comley united in marriage Florence Ivy, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Ryles, 2215 Fernwood Road, and Mr. Roy James Flowman, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Flowman.

The church was prettily decorated with gladioli, marguerites, larkspur and jasmine. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white silk suit with blue organdie vestee, a white off-the-face hat with veil and a shower bouquet of roses and carnations. The bride's sisters, Miss Winnifred Ryles, in an old rose bolero frock of silk crepe, and Miss Iris Ryles, in mauve, were bridesmaids. Their off-the-face hats and accessories matched their frocks, and they carried bouquets of gladioli and sweet peas.

Mr. Archie MacBride was best man, and the ushers were Mr. James Davidson and Mr. Leslie Graham. Mrs. D. Swan presided at the organ, and the hymn "Lead Us, Heavenly Father, Lead Us" was sung during the service.

After the service a reception was held at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Archie McBride, Caledonia Avenue. The guests were received by Mrs. Ryles in a floral silk dress and white accessories, assisted by the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. C. Jasper, in navy blue with dusty-pink accessories. Both wore corsage bouquets of roses and carnations.

A silver basket of flowers centred the supper table, which was covered with a lace cloth, and on a smaller table the bride cut the cake, which stood between vases of flowers behind a miniature bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Flowman will make their home at Port Alberni. Mrs. J. Sangster, Vancouver, a sister of the bridegroom, was a guest at the wedding.

Among the gifts were a silver flower basket, from the permanent guests at the Y.V.C.A., where the bride had been a member of the dining-room staff, and a case of table silver from the kitchen and dining-room staffs.

To Stella Rotolo, Elizabeth, N.J., went patent No. 2,123,316 for an adjustable attachment for bathtubs.

A device for cleaning eggs with steel wool pads received patent No. 2,123,759 for Earle C. Whipple, Goffstown, N.H.

Housewives who dislike ashes on the rugs will appreciate the efforts of Edward S. Halsey of Arlington, Va., in perfecting a helical coil of wire which, as part of a cigarette holder, keeps the ashes from falling off. This invention received patent No. 2,123,466.

Singers in choral groups or quartettes can now practice their parts individually with the new method of musical instruction granted patent No. 2,123,258 for Richard H. Ranger of Newark, N.J. Through phonograph records the various parts of a quartette, or other vocal group, issue from a loudspeaker while the missing part is supplied by the singer practicing.

Tiny Baby Has Even Chance Of Life

Quebec Miner's Wife Has 36-ounce Baby—In Incubator

VAL D'OR, Que. (CP)—Born through a Caesarean operation in a miner's cabin, a baby girl that weighed 36 ounces at birth lay behind the window glass panes of a pinewood incubator here today, with "possibly an even chance" against death.

Dr. J. Aime Carle, who was summoned to the little home 10 days ago when Dr. J. Belanger found 26-year-old Mrs. Joseph Jean was having difficulty in childbirth, said "an even break" might leave life within the tiny frame of baby Jean.

It was Doctors Carle and Belanger who turned the home of the Jeans' into an emergency hospital when they found the mother would have to be relieved of her child immediately. As the doctors prepared to operate on the mother, who weighed less than 100 pounds, they sent word to hospital here to prepare for the child.

The operation came off smoothly. The mother "came out OK" nicely. And then Dr. Carle began a race of 37 miles over northern roads from the home at Little Canada to this Abitibi district mining centre. In less than an hour the tiny girl had been placed within the roughly-made enclosure, where an ordinary thermometer told when it was sufficiently warmed by the electric bulb.

Later, they brought the mother to hospital at Val D'Or and late last night she was reported "still doing fine."

At first, the child weighed only 36 ounces, but within her 11 days of life had added another three-quarters of a pound.

"Miss Toronto" Is Vancouver Girl

TORONTO (CP)—Dianne Perkins, who says she is "pretty hot stuff" at making butter-scotch pies, was awarded the "Miss Toronto" title in competition with 66 other contestants at the beauty show held in connection with the annual international police track and field meet here Saturday.

Miss Perkins, who celebrated her 21st birthday the day before the contest, recently came from Vancouver to live with an aunt here. The dark-haired beauty was born in Toronto, but was taken to Vancouver while still an infant.

Miss Perkins gained the judges' award yesterday over Miss Billie Hallam, who won the 1937 contest. This year's winner said she hoped to use the $300 first prize money as a start in getting a home together for her widowed mother in Vancouver.

History Groups Honor Pioneers

Saanich and Victoria Organizations Hold Joint Outing at Pioneer's Cabin

The Victoria branch of the British Columbia Historical Association, met at the Pioneer's Cabin, Saanichton, on Saturday afternoon in a joint picnic honoring Vancouver Island pioneers.

Several speakers addressed the gathering and told something of the foundation of Saanich district.

The log cabin where the groups met, was constructed about five years ago in the Saanich Fair Grounds as a museum and a pioneer's meeting place. The visitors showed a great deal of interest in the relics of pioneer days that are on exhibit in the cabin.

Dr. T. A. Rickard, president of the B.C. Historical Association, was in the chair. He introduced Lawrence Hagan, president of the Saanich Pioneer Society who welcomed the Victoria visitors and who also expressed the hope that more joint outings might be held.

Dr. Rickard also introduced J. B. Munro, Deputy Minister of Agriculture; George T. Mitchell, president of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society; Alec MacDonald, first president of the Saanich Pioneers' Society; Alexander Smith, principal of Mount Newton High School; John Dean, Saanich pioneer, and O. H. Cogswell and G. H. Slugg, two of the first government teachers in Saanich. They all gave some interesting information about the district.

Dr. Rickard said that in the days of the pioneer Hudson's Bay Company, North Saanich had been regarded as the most promising agricultural district on Vancouver Island, and he understood, it had lived up to this. He also gave a brief survey of the development of roads and railways in the district.

Mr. Munro referred to the interesting nature of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Fairs. An invitation was extended the visitors to attend the forthcoming fair.

Representing the North and South Saanich Agricultural Association, Mr. Mitchell gave a short history of the society, the oldest of its kind west of the Great Lakes.

Mr. MacDonald reviewed the constructing of the Pioneer's Cabin.

Alexander Smith, Mr. Cogswell and Mr. Slugg spoke on the academic and human standpoint of the history of education, and Rev. Edward Cridge, one of the superintendents of education

Youngster Wins Salmon Classic

Sports Mirror

REPORTS CURRENT locally indicate that 1938 life saving classes in Victoria will be subject to stiffer examinations than those of former years. That would mean the standard of efficiency in the routine tests would be raised for the sport.

If the reports are true, and they come from reliable authorities, the action is worthy of the highest commendation. It should produce a better standard of graduate.

For some time those interested in life saving have been building up a following here. Naturally the examiners could not be too harsh on the early classes. But now the study is firmly established and needs no further paternal action, stricter measures are definitely in order.

There have been cases in this city where graduates have been far from proficient in handling cases in the water. Certainly such graduates lost nothing by taking the courses. But there was always the possibility that possession of a life saving badge might bring about rescue attempts that were beyond the power of the swimmer. Youngsters with no chance at all of helping a strong man in the case of an emergency, have been passed through. Their possession of a diploma probably imposed upon them a responsibility they could not have met in the event of an accident.

The life saving following of Victoria will generally greet the plan with approval. No one truly interested in the sport could do otherwise. And if the student of tomorrow is better equipped to cope with accidents which crop up at swimming holes and summer camps than those of the past, the old ones will be the first to acclaim them.

In itself the study of life saving is beneficial. It teaches the student to handle himself more easily in the water and provides a valuable knowledge of the rudiments of artificial respiration which should be common knowledge.

Fight fans here are watching with keen interest preparations for the middleweight championship bout between Freddie Steele and challenger Al Hostak in the Sound City, July 26, and several will make the trip to see it.

There are a lot of record statisticians who look for a new titleholder following the bout. Hostak has registered a rather nifty set of kayos in a career that has gained more than north-west interest.

He has run up a string of 15 straight knockouts and manager Eddie Marino says, like old Captain Billy, "It's only the beginning."

Here are the well known fighters whom Hostak has knocked colder than a clam within the past year of his meteoric rise to the top: Mike Bazzano, 4 rounds; Jimmy Smith, 2 rounds; Jim Neely, 1 round; Tony Fisher, 2 rounds; Leonard Bennett, 8 rounds; Johnny Sikes, 2 rounds; Young Terry, 3 rounds; Babe Risko, 7 rounds; Allen Matthews, 9 rounds; Irish Bob Turner, 2 rounds; Otto Blackwell, 3 rounds; Don LaRue, 1 round; Jack Hilbard, 1 round; Swede Berglund, 2 rounds; Chief Paris, 4 rounds.

Fisher, Bennett, Risko and Matthews all went the 10 round distance with Freddie Steele, yet they were easy meat for the dynamite socking Hostak, rated in some quarters the hardest punching middleweight to flash.

Golfer Ready To Call His Shots

Calgarian Repeats "Dodo" Performance Before Gallery

CALGARY (CP)—Bob Kiely, Calgary golfer, plays his best golf on Sundays.

A week ago at the Bowness Golf Club he banged in a hole-in-one on the long 245 yards 11th and back on the same course yesterday, at the 145 yards fifth hole, he repeated the "golfer's dream."

The hole-in-one man had a large gallery yesterday, hoping he would repeat the perfect performance. He fulfilled all hopes.

Locally, H. A. Stein, playing in a foursome at Gorge Vale, joined the ranks of the select, sinking his tee-shot on the 90-yard 14th. He was playing with C. W. Page, H. Ward and G. Haddon when he accomplished the feat.

BISCUIT WINS HOLLYWOOD CUP

INGLEWOOD, Cal.—In a great driving finish after trailing the field off to start, Seabiscuit returned to his winning ways, taking the Hollywood $50,000 Gold Cup Handicap by a length in new track record time of 2:03.45 for the mile and a quarter. It was a photo finish for second as the crowd of 55,000 cheered wildly.

Charley Howard's great five-year-old, fifth at the halfway post, was given a great ride by Jockey George Woolf. Specifi was second, with Whicheck third, a whisker back. Specifi had set the pace from the start, leading by 10 lengths at one stage.

Leaders Take Cricket Games

Five C's and Incogs Score Easy Victories in League Play

Five C's and Incogs, leaders and runners-up respectively, consolidated their positions at the head of the Victoria and District Cricket Association league standing on Saturday, taking the measure of Victoria and the Albions handily.

At Beacon Hill Park, Eric Quinton and George Payne knocked out 65 and 63 as the churchmen put on 198 for six declared, and then Hepworth and Jack Payne started an attack on the Victoria wickets which finished with them all down for 108.

At the University School pitch, Reg Wenman and Tisdall gave an artistic display of bowling to retire the Albions for only 29. Freeman alone, with a total of 11, reached double figures.

Doug Peden hit in great form to pile up 67 as the Incogs went in to score 150 for eight.

No Alibis

NEW YORK (AP)—Helen Hull Jacobs, who saw a great "come-back" go wrong at Wimbledon when she successfully fought off the effects of a shoulder injury and lack of practice in the early rounds of the All-England Tennis Championships only to get hurt again in the final match against Mrs. Helen Willis Moody, is back in the United States.

For the reporters who went down the bay to meet her ship yesterday she had these things to say:

1. She has no criticisms to make of Mrs. Moody's action in playing out the match without suggesting a rest.

2. She hopes to get a lot of work done on a new novel during her convalescence.

3. It will take two or three weeks for her to recover from the injury to an ankle tendon and then she hopes to play in the Essex Club tournament and the United States championships.

4. She thinks Don Budge is playing better tennis than ever.

The interview developed into a "sparring" match between the reporters, who hoped to hear some steaming remarks about the match, which drew a lot of criticism from English tennis commentators and spectators.

Miss Jacobs, who didn't want to make them, Miss Jacobs placed her shots better.

"I have no 'blasts,' if that is what you are looking for," she replied smilingly to the first volley of questions.

"I'll be very happy to get back playing tennis," she said when they asked if she'd like "another crack" at Mrs. Moody.

glen shone, by rounding the circle five times to finish ahead of the time for Jimmie Laird. The time for this event was 1:35.3 seconds.

In the First Heat race, Spaulding and Barbo had the fans up on their toes with the two speed demons fighting neck and neck for practically all of the 10 laps. Barbo came out on top in the final laps of this race as Spaulding's "easing his car closer as the checkered flag dropped. In third and fourth positions respectively were Mahoney and Laird who also demonstrated driving ability that would stand up well against the very best. The time was 3:12 seconds.

Jimmy Laird really opened up car No. 15 owned by Laird, George Allen and Walter Dobbie, to take the Second Heat race from Sutton, in his and Jack Smith's big Silver Streak. Bloomgren made bids for second position with Sutton but was unable to take the Victoria star through out the 10 laps. Laird flashed across the finishing line with Sutton, and Bloomgren in close.

Laird received a big hand from the spectators as he rolled into the pits. The time was 3:18 seconds.

In another 10-lap event, Sutton took the course in 2:18.1 seconds to finish ahead of Laird who threatened all the way to jump into the lead. "Digger" Caldwell, Victoria, finished third.

BIKE RACE NOVELTY

In the novelty 15-lap bicycle race featuring cycle stars from Victoria, under the management of Torchy Peden, professional six-day rider, Neil Duval, local flash, took top honors with a total point on sprints of 23. Eric Whitehead was second with 11 points and Gordon Bell, third with 9 points.

Results of the time trials follow: Jimmy Laird, 19 1.5; Jack Spaulding, 18 3.5, equaling track record; Bert Bloomgren, 19 2.5; Chick Barbo, 19; Bob Wensley, 20 2.5; Bert Sutton, 19 1.5; "Digger" Caldwell, 20 4.5; Stan Mahoney, 19 and Fred Carson, 20 4.5.

CHAMPION BACK GIVING LESSONS

Runyan Returns to Job After Handing Snead Worst P.G.A. Lacing

NEW YORK (AP)—Paul Runyan, a dapper little champion who takes everything in his stride, today had turned from the excitement of winning his second National Professional Golfers' Association title to the routine of his tasks as pro at the Metropolitan Country Club in suburban White Plains, N.Y., without batting an eye.

Nothing disturbed the former Arkansas caddy on the way to his first tournament victory of the year—neither the Shawnee Country Club course, nor the heat of the Delaware River Valley, nor the fact that he went into his title round match with Sam Snead a 2 to 1 underdog. He whipped them all, and the odds most decisively, for his margin of 8 and 7 over Snead was the most one-sided ever scored in 21 P.G.A. final matches.

And yesterday, just as if he hadn't beaten out 107 of the country's best professionals for the pros' own title, Paul was back at his own club, giving the lessons he had signed up for before heading for Shawnee 10 days earlier.

Runyan's performance in adding the 1938 title to the crown he won in 1934 with a 38-hole decision over Craig Wood was a climactic display of the consistency which has enabled him to hold seventh place among the year's money winners, despite the fact he hadn't won a single tournament.

United States championships.

The Story of Rubber

As you read these words, how many things could you reach which are made of rubber or which contain rubber? It is safe to say that you will find at least one thing, maybe many.

An open-air hut, in Amazon rubber district.

Are there rubber heels on your shoes? Does your clothing have any rubber buttons? Is your fountain pen made largely of rubber?

Elastic garters, raincoats and overshoes contain rubber. Golf balls and tennis balls are mainly rubber, and a "league" baseball contains a small amount of rubber around the cork. Automobile tires and many other fittings of the car are made of rubber.

All these things, and hundreds of others, have been made possible because certain trees and smaller plants produce juice of a special kind.

The most important rubber tree is the "Hevea." Although now widely grown in Africa and Asia, this tree is a native of tropical America. The Indians of Brazil used to call it by a name meaning "weeping tree," and the name came from milky juice which oozes from the bark, drop by drop.

On his second visit to the New World, Columbus saw Indians playing with rubber balls. He never before had seen a ball which would bounce. The Indians told him that the balls were made from the juice of trees. He took a few of the rubber balls back to Spain.

In later years, other Spaniards learned that Indians of Mexico also knew the use of rubber. They sometimes dipped cotton cloth in juice from a rubber tree, and turned the cloth into shoes of a sort.

In Brazil the Portuguese found natives making use of rubber and for a long period Brazil became the center of the world's rubber production. It wasn't a very big production, to be sure, but a Scotsman found a way to make rainproof coats with the strange juice. His name was Charles Macintosh. People today often call a raincoat a "macintosh."

Hevea trees grew wild in hundreds of parts of the Amazon valley. White traders visited the forests, and obtained rubber in exchange for knives, hatchets, and trinkets. Often the whites built rude Indian-style huts to give them shelter while they were doing the trading. The shelters were little more than roofs. Since the sides were open, there was as much "ventilation" as the forest could give.

HOROSCOPE

TUESDAY, JULY 19, 1938

Women are well directed today according to astrology. The stars presage great interest in peace organizations and seem to indicate definite influence over government plans for national defence.

The planetary government encourages clear thinking and decisive action. Fault-finders and lazy critics will meet with stinging rebukes as political campaigns gain momentum. Surprises, predicted as marking many events of the autumn, will be widespread in election results. The pendulum of popular favor will be uncertain and irregular.

Africa continues under a planetary direction which seems to indicate that there will be bitter controversies and serious troubles north and south. Native problems will increase.

Thunderstorms in France as well as Wales and England will follow intense heat. Tourists will have exciting experiences. After a summer in which there will be a widespread inclination toward extravagance there is to be much anxiety about making both ends meet in the fall.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of fair success, but there may be worries that disturb young folk. Hard work is foretold.

Children born on this day may be thorough in their methods and gifted in detail. Many subjects of this sign are hard students and have a scientific bent.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—What do you think of a young man who is healthy, husky and well educated, but who for some reason can't hold a position (probably because he has a rooted aversion to work), and who is always borrowing money from his sweetheart? The girl works steadily, but makes a very small salary. Personally, I think he is not fit to be a doorman. What do you think?

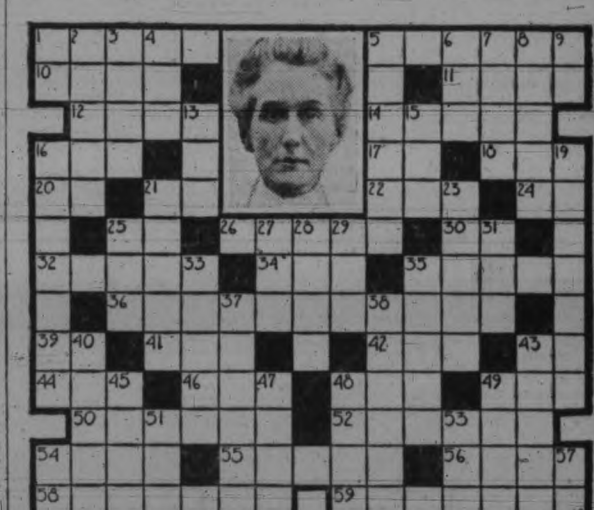

Answer: I agree with you. I don't think a man can get any lower than to become a parasite on a poor working girl and to use her love for him as the means of chiseling her out of her few hard-earned dollars.

He knows how hard she works, how little she gets, how she must deny herself the comforts of life to give him money. And, if he had any spark of manhood or chivalry in him, he would starve before he would take a cent from her. Yet there are plenty of cads like him, lazy loafers who never do a hand's turn of labor and who live by preying on women who love them. One of the oldest and commonest rackets in the world is borrowing money from women.

Why girls who have sense enough and know enough about business to hold down jobs fall for this sort of graft, only God who gave women more heart than brains, knows. They let men wheedle them out of their pay envelopes and their life savings with a few soft words and a little petting, and they don't even know that when a woman lends a man money she kisses it and him both goodbye. For no other one thing kills a man's affection for a girl so quickly as to owe her money.

DOROTHY DIX.

AWARD TWO ROAD JOBS

Development of the Pacific Highway and construction of new mining trails, at a total cost of $660,000 will be started immediately, it was announced over the weekend by Minister of Public Works Frank MacPherson.

The British Columbia government will work in co-operation with the federal government on these projects.

About $300,000 will be spent on the first stages of the Blaine-New Westminster Highway and $36,000 on mining trails.

The first section of the new highway, for 5.7 miles, between the Pacific Highway (Yale Road) and McLennan Road, will cost $120,726 and will be done by Dawson, Wade and Company.

The second section, comprising 2.8 miles, between the Nicomekl River and the McLennan Road, will be done by W. C. Arnett and Company at a cost of $91,323.

"All tenders, together with that of Coast Quarries Limited, were submitted to Ottawa, with the recommendation by the Provincial Government that the two above tenders be accepted," Mr. MacPherson said. "In view of the fact that the Coast Quarries tender, at 3 per cent below the lowest other tender, was not legal, as it did not contain either a unit or a lump price, our recommendation was accepted."

City police yesterday investigated a report that the glass partition in the Columbia Theatre ticket office was broken Saturday night. Investigation disclosed the theft of a fountain pen from the office.

Under Thousand Men Ask Aid

Figures Prove That More Than 3,000 Men Found Own Jobs This Summer

Less than 1,000 men have so far registered in Victoria and in Vancouver for temporary relief decided upon during the recent unemployment demonstration in Victoria, it was stated this morning by the Department of Labor.

In Victoria, at the special registration office set up, 732 men registered before leaving for the mainland. In Vancouver, however, only 125 men have registered. Other registrations were made in interior towns, but they are not believed to have been very large.

These figures seem to indicate that only about 1,000 single men went out of work, although the Relief Project Workers' Union claimed there were 4,900 single destitute men in British Columbia.

Last winter there were 4,700 in government relief camps, which means that more than 3,500 men have found employment in recent months. The Department of Labor has maintained all along that all single unemployed could find temporary work during the summer months, if they would get out and look for it.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A meeting of 2,000 jobless last night decided to ask prairie and eastern provincial governments to investigate the unemployment situation in their areas with a view to gaining support in a demand for a federal works program.

The meeting, sponsored by the Relief Project Workers' Union, also decided to start a movement of men into the British Columbia interior in search of work.

Between 200 and 300 men will leave here tonight for Kamloops and Penticton via freight train, the meeting decided. Succeeding drafts will be sent to various Okanagan and Kootenay centres during the week. The men will move in bunches from town to town seeking work.

Visiting Band Draws Big Crowd

Bothell Band From Seattle Gives Concert Program and Marching Demonstration

Before a large crowd that overtaxed the Athletic Park seating accommodation Saturday night, the highly-rated Bothell High School Drill Band from Seattle, provided a sterling exhibition of classical marching manoeuvres.

Arranged by the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce in connection with the "Miss Victoria" contest, the program won the well-earned applause of the large audience, which long before 8 had filled every seat in the grandstand and bleachers.

After a moment of darkness, the gaily-uniformed 50-piece band, which is composed of girls and boys between the ages of 12 and 18, made a colorful entrance under the floodlights. Led by the major domo and drum majors, and to the accompaniment of quick-step march tunes, members of the band went through a series of intricate marching movements, including a graceful form of turning invented by the director.

While the band went through its marching demonstrations, youthful drum majors gave exhibitions of baton twirling. The spotlight in this exhibition was taken by Ruth Malick, a national drum majorette.

Marching up and down in front of the grandstand, the band contributed six concert selections dedicated to the six "Miss Victoria" candidates, who were introduced by Duke McLeod, master of ceremonies.

The numbers played by the band were: "Washington Post" (Sousa), dedicated to Jean Bishop, Public Services candidate; "Our Director," Jean Wilson, MacDonald Electric Company; "Foot-Lifter," Doreen McGregor, Beaux Arts; "Colorado," Eleanor Moffat, Scottish Societies; "Billboard," Kay White, United Commercial Travelers, and "His Honor," Phyllis Addison, Blue Line Transportation Company.

Local entertainers supporting the "Miss Victoria" candidates, contributed the first half of the program, and Miss Addison appeared in person in a pleasing toe-dance. The program comprised songs by Thomas Kelway, for Miss Wilson; a humorous recitation by Charles Patrick, for Miss Bishop; numbers by the Imperial Male Quartette, for Miss White; Reed of Tulloch, for Miss Gwen Dewar's pupils, for Miss Moffat, and a humorous recitation by Miss Hope Denbigh, for Miss McGregor.

The band gave another concert program at Beacon Hill Park yesterday before a large audience.

William Copeland was charged before Magistrate Hall in the City Police Court this morning with being intoxicated while in control of a car, and was remanded until Wednesday for hearing.

Infantry Goes Under Canvas

Sidney Camp Gets Under Way With More Than 1,000 Men Training

Five infantry battalions of the nonpermanent active militia and two auxiliary units, drawn from Vancouver Island, the lower mainland and the interior of British Columbia, started at Sidney this morning on the first of six days' intensive training.

There are well over 1,000 militia and permanent force men at the camp, which is on the right-hand side of the road leading from the East Saanich highway into Sidney. The five infantry battalions have a total of 813 men under canvas.

Bugles sounding reveille and pipers playing "Johnny Cope" roused the men at 6 this morning. The week's camp started yesterday with a muster parade after the First Battalion, Canadian Scottish Regiment, had arrived by bus from Victoria and the destroyers Fraser and St. Laurent had brought the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada, the British Columbia Regiment (Duke of Connaught's Own Rifles) and the Irish Fusiliers (Vancouver Regiment) from Vancouver. The Rocky Mountain Rangers, drawn from the Kamloops district, have been under canvas since Wednesday.

The Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, permanent force unit, went to Sidney from the annual machine gun camp at Heals Rifle Range to help with the instruction.

The infantry unit are accompanied by the 6th Divisional Royal Canadian Army Service Corps and No. 12 Field Ambulance, Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps.

Brigadier J. C. Stewart, D.S.O., officer commanding Military District No. 11, is camp commandant. Major Stuart Robertson is in command of the First Battalion, Canadian Scottish.

CEREMONIAL PARADE

The highlight of the camp will come on Saturday, when Brigadier Stewart will review the massed units, and Lieutenant-Governor Eric W. Hamber will take the salute at the march past. Until that time, the infantry men will have plenty to keep them busy.

Today they were to watch demonstrations of field work and unit training by the P.P.C.L.I. For the four following days the men will take part in tactical exercises all over the north Saanich area.

For tactical training purposes the camp is divided into two sections. The Seaforths, the B.C. Regiment and the Irish Fusiliers are under the headquarters staff of the 14th Infantry Brigade and the Canadian Scottish and the Rocky Mountain Rangers are under the Canadian Scottish regional headquarters.

Fires Fought In Sooke District

"PETER FIRST" IS AT PLAZA

Unusual Picture, With Splendid Cast, Opens Local Engagement Today

Next to Disney's "Snow White," says the Canadian Motion Picture Digest, "Peter the First," now at the Plaza Theatre, will probably be considered the most unusual production of the year.

The picture is a most unusual one, the Digest reviewer continues, and I would have missed a great experience if I had failed to see it. From an acting and directorial viewpoint it is superb; the photography ranks as good as the best from Hollywood.

"Nikolai Simonov, who portrays the title role, reminded me strangely of Charles Laughton. In fact the role of Peter is one that Laughton could have played to perfection. Simonov does a magnificent piece of work."

game of a twin bill, 5 to 1. Then in the seven-inning nightcap the Senators, suffering from near-sightedness all week, finally found the plate and connected for 16 hits, including a homer by big Nick Culp. They won the game hands down, 13 to 2.

San Francisco dropped two more to the San Diego Padres, 7 to 3 and 3 to 1. The double win gave the Padres the series six out of seven.

As customary, the Oakland A's lost their Sunday quota of games. Portland measured them 4 to 2 in the opener and then waited off with the second, 3 to 1.

A ninth inning rally cost Seattle the first game with Hollywood Stars, 5 to 4, but in the second, Levi McCormick smashed a homer out of the park with the bases packed in the first inning and Seattle won, 8 to 4, by winning the nightcap the Seattle outfit won the series four games to three.

Oak Bay Shows Prison Story

"Alcatraz Island," a Warner Bros. melodrama, is to have its first local showing today at the Oak Bay Theatre.

It is said the story isn't merely one of life behind the stone walls of the Pacific-washed prison. There's plenty of action on the mainland, both before and after the protagonist—one Galt Brady, played by John Littel—is confined for income-tax evasion.

The story itself deals with a powerful racketeer (John Littel), who is forced to remove his daughter (Mary Maguire), from an exclusive boarding school, and take her to live with him. When he is imprisoned for income tax evasion, his one wish is to get out as soon as his term is up to rejoin his daughter, now in love with a district attorney (Gordon Oliver), and his own sweetheart (Ann Sheridan).

The screen attraction accompanying this stage show will be "Woman Against Woman" starring Herbert Marshall and Virginia Bruce and Mary Astor.

Kittiwake Won Cruiser Race

F. A. Harvey's Boat Declared Winner at Nanaimo; Protests Withdrawn

NANAIMO (CP)—F. A. Harvey's Kittiwake of the Seattle Yacht Club was declared overall winner of the annual international-cruiser race from Bremerton, Wash., to Nanaimo.

The judges calculated Harvey's percentage of error was 1.2798.

Courses were plotted before the 46 boats left Bremerton Friday night. Winners are determined according to accuracy of the plotted courses and closeness to the sailors' estimated arrival time.

Almost immediately a protest meeting of the boat owners was held. Judges said their placings as announced were subject to protest changes.

However, it was learned later that judges explained how percentage errors had been calculated and all protests were withdrawn. The results were declared official.

L. F. Marshall's Vancouver-owned Jaro, from Burrard Yacht Club, was declared winner of class A, for boats under 38 feet. Percentage of error was calculated at 1.6139 per cent. Second place in the class went to Comrade, sailed by C. H. Bolin of Queen City Yacht Club, 2.0858 per cent error, and third to Sandpiper II, owned by M. S. Allen, with 2.2443 per cent error.

Mary III, sailed by H. C. Peacock of Queen City Club, won the class B event for boats over 38 feet, with 2.1354 per cent error. Second place was Sarnar, W. B. McDonald of Olympia Yacht Club (2.337), and third was Lave rock, sailed by Ed. Cunningham of Seattle Yacht Club (2.7687).

Three of the 46 boats starting the race turned back before arriving here.

Sixty-five per cent of all the automobiles in Hungary are registered in the capital, Budapest.

Ladies At Tiller In Yachting Event

Ripples, Guillemot and Klatawa First in Star, Dinghy and Snipe Races

Lady skippers set out to show the mere males some of the finer points in sailing at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club's matinee yesterday.

It was the outstanding feature of a full day's racing card and in the star class a close race was witnessed with the fair sex at the tiller.

Sailing twice around a quadrilateral course to Cattle Point, Flower Island, beach mark and home, the stars got away to a good start at 3 in the afternoon with light variable winds prevailing.

Aquila was sailed by Dorothy Ganner, Aura by Mrs. G. A. Thompson, Mintaka by Mrs. W. T. M. Barrett and Ripples by Jean Morrison. Ripples crossed the finishing line in the lead with the Mintaka and Aquila trailing but a few seconds later.

Finishing times were as follows: Ripples 5:13.32, Mintaka 5:13.40, Aquila 5:13.47, Aura 5:21.10.

Snipes finished as follows: Klatawa, Mary Cumberbirch, 4:36.14; P.D.Q., Eileen Griffin, 4:44.06, and Pelican, which was becalmed, 4:52.00.

ASHE AND BROOK CUPS

Sunday morning's events included competitions by stars in the first of the series for the Ashe Cup and dinghies in the second of the George Broome Cup series.

The course was triangular to Cattle Point beach mark and home, once around.

Stars finished: Aura, Barltrop, 12:15.31; Aquila, Peckford, 12:17.04; Ripples, Halkett, 12:17.35; Mintaka, Barrett, 12:19.00; Boykin, Blandy, 12:19.57.

Mintaka carried her new German-made flexible mast for the first time.

The dinghies, in the light wind, were bunched off Cattle Point for about 10 minutes, finishing as follows:

Kismet, Gann, 12:27.24; Onaway, Hincks, 12:31.50; Puffin, Johnson, 12:32.13; Bandicoot, Heal, 12:32.35; Guillemot, Goby, 12:33.10.

Penguin, sailed by Commodore E. P. Ashe, broke a shroud and failed to finish.

Snipes finished: P.D.Q., Griffin, 12:33.35; Klatawa, Ward, 12:34.43; Pelican, Moran, 12:43.20.

SATURDAY'S RACE On Saturday afternoon, Ripples, Penguin and Klatawa were the winners in the star, dinghy and snipe classes.

Owing to the light airs the committee made the course a leeward one, a mark being set near the west end of the bay, the other marks being the Beach buoy off the far end and a mark off Cattle Point.

Finishing times were: Stars—Ripples, Halkett, 4:30.15; Aquila, Peckford, 4:30.40; Aura, Barltrop, 4:31.04; Boykin, Blandy, 4:41.10.

Dinghies—Penguin, Ashe, 4:44; Kismet, Gann, 4:44; Puffin, Johnson, 4:48.17; Onaway, Hincks, 4:48.50; Dabchick, Beeching, 4:49.10; Tern, Campbell, 4:49.23; Bandicoot, Heal, 4:51.03.

Snipes—Klatawa, Ward, 4:46.30; P.D.Q., Griffin, 4:49.37; Pelican, Moran, 4:53.

MANY YACHTS CALL

Considerable yachting activity was witnessed at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club's moorings during the past few days, with a number of sailing cruisers and power boats visiting Cadboro Bay after participating in the Pacific International Yachting Association's regatta at Vancouver and the International cruiser race to Nanaimo.

The yachts calling here included the Alcor, owned by Frank Hiseck of Seattle; L. P. Larsen's power cruiser, Alféan, of Seattle; S. Loaded to capacity with general freight and carrying a large list of passengers, Ss. Princess Norah sailed from the Belleville Street docks at 11 Saturday night for Port Alice and intermediate west coast ports.

The majority of the passengers were summer tourists. Among the Victorians aboard were Mr. and Mrs. A. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Dinsmore and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Dinsmore.
